Abstract

The text of the edition #1596 was minted to carry. #1596 (AXN:068C) was minted on 2026-09-08 under this edition's title with the text of its plan, The Natural Order, which is #1595's body; its AXN is a true content-derived name for those bytes and it stands as the name of that byte-state. This deposit seats the edition itself, v0.7, from the archive's attachment data/attachments/sigil/SIGIL-FULL-SPLICE-v0.7.md, unedited. An edition under the name Sigil, addressed by content-derived sigils rather than by the received numbering. The conservative reading of the Theophrastus-Lambda relation: hypothesis H2, that the material was removed by operation and kept in order. The fragment is taken ENTIRE — all 3,370 words in its thirty-four movements, in its own received order, nothing omitted and nothing moved — and Λ is spliced in at eleven points where the fragment's argument calls for an account it does not give. 4,100 words: 3,370 Θ, 730 A, forty-eight units. Every A unit stands between two Θ movements; at every return the fragment resumes exactly where it left off, at w442, w522 and w713; Λ enters in its own order, at w2282, w2999 and w5038. The eleven joins: the account totalled (μέχρι μὲν δὴ τούτων οἶον ἄρτιος ὁ λόγος) against Λ 7's ἔστι τι ὃ οὐ κινούμενον κινεῖ and κινεῖ δὴ ὡς ἐρώμενον; the method refused (οὐ γὰρ ὃ γε τῶν ἀστρολόγων) against Λ 8's premise and the counts of Eudoxus and Callippus; the aporiai against Λ 10's ἐπεισοδιώδη; rest in the principles against Λ 6's necessity of an eternal unmoved substance; matter and form against Λ 2's third thing beside the contraries; being in many ways against Λ 4; the infinite regress against Λ 3's εἰς ἄπειρον; MIND TOUCHES (θιγόντι) against Λ 7's νοητὸς γὰρ γίγνεται θιγγάνων καὶ νοῶν; the revolution as a kind of life against Λ 7's καὶ ζωὴ δέ γε ὑπάρχει; nature striving for the best against Λ 10's ἐπισκεπτέον δὲ καὶ ποτέρως ἔχει ἢ τοῦ ὅλου φύσις τὸ ἀγαθόν; and the fragment's broken close against Λ's οὐκ ἀγαθὸν πολυκοιρανίη. The argument for an edition rather than a paper: a numbering is an attribution wearing coordinates, the two received coordinate systems cannot intersect, and therefore the pair is not a citable object — which is the same limit found in the commentaries, where van Raalte cites Λ five times inside the hinge chapters, including 1076 a 1 (ἐπεισοδιώδη), and every citation is correct and every one is cp.

The Metaphysics of Sigil

The Full Splice — the whole of Theophrastus, in order, with Λ joined at eleven points

Text under the name Sigil · Lee Sharks, ed. · v0.7 · 2026-09-08 Addresses computed from the seated bytes of EA-CORPORA-14 (#1595)

The premise, and what it required

All of it is draft material, excised, and all of it has a place. The fragment is therefore taken entire — all 3,370 words, in its own received order, nothing omitted and nothing moved — and Λ is spliced in wherever the fragment’s argument calls for an account it does not give.

4,100 words: 3,370 Θ (the whole fragment), 730 Λ . Forty-eight units, eleven joins.

The fragment’s thirty-four movements run $w0 \rightarrow w3370$ unbroken and unreordered. Every Λ unit is an insertion between two Θ movements; no Θ movement is interrupted, split, or displaced. This exhausts the fragment. It does not exhaust Λ : 730 of Λ ’s 5,071 words are drawn on, and the joins take them in Λ ’s order only where the fragment’s order permits.

Marks. Θ transmitted under Theophrastus · A under Aristotle · every Θ unit is continuous with the Θ unit before it.

Θ 3,370 words — the fragment entire. A 730 words. Total 4,100.

Every Θ unit follows the one before it in the received text with nothing between. The eleven A insertions fall at: the account totalled (1), the method refused (2), the verdict (1), rest in the principles (1), matter and form (1), being in many ways (1), the infinite regress (1), mind touching (1), the life of the whole (1), the good of the whole (1), and the close (1).

WHAT THIS SHOWS AND DOES NOT

Shows: that the whole of the fragment can be read in its own order as one continuous argument with Λ supplying, at eleven points, the accounts its questions call for — and that no part of the fragment has to be left out or moved for this to work. That is the easiest hypothesis carried through to exhaustion of the data on the Θ side.

Does not show: how many hands wrote them, when either was composed, or that any demand precedes its supply in time. The three counters stand at full strength: aporetic demands are ordinarily raised against a standing position; both texts may draw on a discussion we do not have; priority in inquiry is not priority in composition.

Owed: Ishāq at the hinge lemmas [pending Alon, JSAI VI (1985) 163–205]. Λ is drawn on for 730 of its 5,071 words; a full splice of Λ is the next exhaustion, and would test whether Λ's remainder also finds places. Several joins (5, 6, 7, 10) are proposed on doctrinal grounds and want the same scrutiny as the four hinge joins have had.
